

The Golden Boot

24/15/2021
Jake

On a sunny day there lived a dad called Jeremy, a mum called Pascilla and a child called Jack. One day they got a strange delivery from the postman. It was a shoe box that said "I hold the Golden boot".³³ "None can figure out what it means"³³ said the postman. The family didn't mind it so they took it inside their house. Jeremy opened the box and they found a golden footy boot glued to a piece of wood. They decided to put it on their trophy wall.

When they were shopping the TV's were showing cages all over the world. They looked at the TV carefully and saw the golden boot doing all of this. He was capturing humans and putting them in a giant rocket to send them up into space forever. Not long after the news reporter got captured the golden boot broke into the shops. Soon every body was captured but them. It was their job to save the world.

After awhile driving they finally found the golden boots lair. They just didn't know how to defeat it. They realised that the robots working for him were carrying a wired blower dust back to the lair.

They went into the woods where the robots were getting the blue dust from. They realised that the robots were taking the blue dust so there was none left, and that meant that this blue dust was the only thing that could defeat the golden boot. They rushed into the woods and hid behind trees so the robots didn't see them and capture them. They managed to get the last speck of blue dust because the robots had poor vision. They hid in robot suits to camouflage in. They just managed to get the golden boot without getting caught and defeated the golden boot. "HOO RAY!" they all shouted.

I really don't want anyone to open a box like